What is the cost of the emergency ambulance transport, and how is it paid?

Charges for emergency transport varies based on the nature of the call and the type of services received. These charges typically start at $450.

Should a citizen have insurance, an invoice is sent to their insurance company. Often, insurance companies only pay for a portion of the medical bill. Any remaining costs are then billed to the individual. If there is no insurance, the individual is responsible for the costs.

- Any out-of-pocket expenses not covered by the insurance company.
- Uninsured citizens.
- Out-of-pocket interfacility transport (hospital to hospital) expenses.

- Subscription is valid for transports within 1 year of sign up date.
